

Preparing Canada's students for success

– in school, in college and beyond

The provinces and territories of Canada are committed to helping their students achieve personal and academic success with education programs that teach students to become creative, responsible, actively involved citizens who are prepared for the challenges of today's ever-changing world.

To support classroom instruction, student research and the integration of information and communication technologies in schools across Canada, EBSCO's databases feature reliable, high-quality content from a variety of popular and academic sources. These resources cover a vast array of subject areas and support many of the learning outcomes set forth by the provincial ministries of education.

Integration of 21st Century Information and Communication Technologies

- Simple, user-friendly search interface (Explora) organized by curated topics with helpful overviews and powerful filters to narrow results
- Google and Microsoft integrations, allowing educators to quickly share content to Google Classroom and students to save articles to Drive or OneDrive
- Ability to export citations to NoodleTools, EasyBib and other bibliographic management platforms
- Free LTI v1.3-certified faculty apps for Schoology, Canvas, Blackboard, Moodle and Desire2Learn (D2L) that enable teachers to search for EBSCO content and embed links to full text, all from within the LMS

Resources for Developing Multiple Literacies

- Full-text articles from a variety of source types that:
 - facilitate close study of text structures
 - reflect multiple perspectives
 - encourage critical and creative thinking
 - promote intercultural understanding
- Multimedia content, such as maps, graphs, charts, images, audio recordings and videos

In addition, EBSCOhost is the most widely used research platform in academic institutions around the world. Using EBSCO's resources in support of your school's curriculum will ensure that graduates are well-prepared to excel with projects and research in the university environment.

Canadian Points of View Reference Source

By presenting multiple sides of current issues — including those of interest to Canadians — this database helps students better understand controversial issues, construct persuasive arguments and essays, and develop critical thinking skills.

Canadian Reference Centre

Provide an optimal research experience for students keeping up with current events or examining Canada's global involvement. This full-text database contains thousands of magazines, journals, Canadian newspapers and newswires, biographies, reference books. French language content is also included.

Canadian Literary Centre

With a deliberate focus on Canadian writers and their works, this database provides researchers with full text of poems and short fiction, literary criticism, interviews, and reviews from regional publishers such as University of Toronto Press.

Literary Reference Ultimate

This all-in-one database for English Language Arts includes an extensive full-text collection of popular literary magazines, journals, videos, e-books and literary works — including poems, short fiction and critical analyses — as well as resources for film studies, journalism and theater studies.

History Reference Ultimate

Covering a wide variety of topics in the world's history from early civilization to the present, this full-text database contains thousands of historical documents, biographies, magazines, journals, e-books and videos. The database also supports the study of human geography, sociology and economics, making it a versatile tool for multidisciplinary research.

Read It!

Support English-language reading proficiency and comprehension with reference texts and nonfiction, including foundational articles on Canadian history and culture. The database also includes practice quizzes to help English language learners improve reading, researching, note-taking and academic writing skills.

Science Reference Ultimate

Enhance teaching and learning in core science courses and specialized electives with this extensive full-text collection of popular magazines, scholarly journals, videos, e-books, experiments and detailed lesson plans.

EBSCOlearning

EBSCOlearning offers a variety of online college and career preparation resources to help students achieve their goals. Dedicated Canadian editions are available for LearningExpress Library Complete and PrepSTEP for High Schools.

EBSCO eBooks Canadian Subscription Collection

This collection contains more than 20,000 e-books of fiction and nonfiction from top Canadian publishers and authors and covers a diverse range of topics pertaining to Canada's history, native culture, politics and current events. Also ask about our Indigenous Collection – Canada.

Flipster

Flipster, EBSCO's digital newsstand, offers online access to more than 1,300 magazines and trade publications — anytime, anywhere, from any device. With flexible subscription options and no minimum order, Flipster supports student research, classroom instruction, and leisure reading with titles such as Maclean's, Chatelaine, The Walrus, Canada's History, Kayak, Owl and more.

Maclean's Magazine Archive

This digital collection includes 3,300 issues of the leading Canadian news and interest magazine from 1905 to 2015. Providing a unique perspective on national and international news and culture, the magazine covers investigative reporting, opinion and analysis on politics, economics, technology and more.

NoveList

NoveList Plus and NoveList K-8 Plus help librarians match students with books that are right for their reading level and interests. Teachers will find tools for teaching with books, lists by unit and topic, book discussion guides and reviews.

EBSCO Discovery Service

Integrate all your school library's electronic and print resources in one simple search.